

Traditional SEP, and SIMPLE IRAs

Understanding Required Distributions at 70¹/₂

Questions & Answers

Why must I and others age 70 1/2 or older have to take a required distribution?

The purpose of an IRA is to allow you and others to save for retirement and then use the funds for retirement. Congress decided that the year a person attains age 70 1/2 is a reasonable time to require a person to commence withdrawals from his or her traditional IRA, SEP-IRA or SIMPLE IRA.

When you take an IRA distribution, you will generally include the IRA distribution in your income for federal income tax purposes and you will pay taxes based on your applicable marginal tax rate.

The law by requiring distributions means the federal government will collect tax revenues which have been deferred for many years.

Why are there federal tax rules mandating required minimum distributions from a traditional IRA?

The primary purpose of a traditional IRA is to provide retirement funds for the traditional IRA account holder and also to accumulate funds for a beneficiary. Therefore, the tax laws require an IRA account holder to take a required minimum distribution for the year he or she attains age 70^{1/2} and each subsequent year. After the IRA account holder dies, the beneficiary or beneficiaries will be required to take required distributions. There are specific formulas for determining how much must be withdrawn, and when. These amounts are called "required minimum distributions" (RMDs).

What happens if I fail to withdraw the required minimum distribution?

Current federal income tax law provides a penalty tax of 50% of the amount required to be distributed, but which was not. For example, if you failed to withdraw a required minimum distribution of $1,000 for a given year, then you would owe a tax of $500.

What are the tax consequences of receiving an RMD?

The general taxation rule for traditional IRAs will apply. A recipient (you or your beneficiary) will include the amount received in gross income for the year of receipt. You (or your beneficiary, if applicable) will pay taxes with respect to this amount at the marginal income tax rate which applies to you (or your beneficiary if applicable), unless a portion of the distribution is not taxable because it is comprised of basis.

Must I withdraw all of my money because I am 70½, or may I withdraw IRA funds over a number of years?

You are not required to withdraw all of your IRA funds in one year. You are permitted to set up a distribution schedule over a number of years, as long as you take each year your RMD amount or a larger amount.

As long as your money is in your IRA, it remains tax deferred, as do any earnings. By using periodic payments over a number of years, you spread your income out over the Payment schedule and typically will pay less tax.

How is my required minimum distribution calculated under the RMD rules ?

The balance of your IRA as of the preceding 12/31 is divided by the divisor from the Uniform Lifetime Table, based on the age of the accountholder. For example: the fair market value of your IRA as of 12/31/18 is $15,000. Your age is 77 in 2019. The divisor from the Uniform Lifetime Table is 21.2. Your required minimum distribution for 2019 is $15,000/21.2, or $707.55.

$$\text{Formula \#1} \quad \text{RMD} = \frac{\text{Account Balance as of Preceding 12/31}}{\text{Period from Uniform Lifetime Table}}$$

$$\text{Formula \#2} \quad \text{RMD} = \frac{\text{Account Balance}}{\text{Period from Joint Lives Table}}$$

What is the Uniform Lifetime Table?

It is the table which the IRS has instructed be used for determining the distribution period for lifetime distributions to an IRA accountholder when his or her spouse is either not the sole designated beneficiary, or is the sole beneficiary, but is not more than 10 years younger than the accountholder.

Uniform Lifetime Table

Age of IRA Account-holder	Distribution Period (in years)	Age of IRA Account-holder	Distribution Period (in years)	Age of IRA Account-holder	Distribution Period (in years)
70	27.4	86	14.1	101	5.9
71	26.5	87	13.4	102	5.5
72	25.6	88	12.7	103	5.2
73	24.7	89	12.0	104	4.9
74	23.8	90	11.4	105	4.5
75	22.9	91	10.8	106	4.2
76	22.0	92	10.2	107	3.9
77	21.2	93	9.6	108	3.7
78	20.3	94	9.1	109	3.4
79	19.5	95	8.6	110	3.1
80	18.7	96	8.1	111	2.9
81	17.9	97	7.6	112	2.6
82	17.1	98	7.1	113	2.4
83	16.3	99	6.7	114	2.1
84	15.5	100	6.3	115	1.9
85	14.8

Does it matter who my beneficiary is?

No. The Uniform Lifetime Table is used to determine the divisor regardless of who is your IRA beneficiary. There is one exception. The Joint Life Expectancy Table is to be used when the IRA owner has designated his or her spouse to be the sole primary beneficiary and such spouse is more than 10 years younger.

If I attain age 70 1/2 in 2018, what is my deadline to withdraw such RMD?

Your deadline is your required beginning date.

What is my required beginning date?

The required beginning date is April 1 of the year following the year in which you reach age 70½. You reach age 70½ on the day six months after your 70th birthday. For example, if your 70th birthday is June 25, six months from June 25 is December 25. You would be considered to be "70 and 1/2" in that year and must begin distributions by April 1 of the next year.

What "age" is used to determine the distribution period (i.e. life-expectancy factor) for the first year?

The age to be used is the age you attain as of December 31 of the year you attained age 70½. If your date of birth is 1/4/48, then you attain age 70 on 1/4/48, and 70½ on 7/4/18. Therefore, age 70 would be used for 2018. If your date of birth had been 8/10/47, then you would attain age 70½ on 2/10/18, and also age 71 in 2018. Thus, age 71 would be used for 2018.

If my first distribution has to be withdrawn by April 1 of the year after the year I reach age 70½, when do I have to take additional distributions? What is my deadline for these distributions?

You are required to take distributions for each calendar year after the year you reach age 70½. While you have until April 1 of the year after the year in which you turn age 70½ to take your first distribution, distributions for the second year must be made by December 31 of such year. The deadline for subsequent distributions is December 31 of each subsequent year.

May I withdraw more than my required minimum distribution?

Yes.

Must the distribution schedule I establish also be the same as my required minimum distribution schedule?

No. The rule is that the amount distributed each year must always equal or exceed your RMD amount for such year.

What is the IRA custodian's role with respect to RMDs?

Every IRA custodian/trustee must furnish an RMD notice to each IRA accountholder who must take a required distribution for a given year. For example, if an accountholder is required to take an RMD with respect to 2018, then the IRA custodian must furnish the notice by January 31, 2018. The IRA custodian has the following two options for furnishing this notice: (1) to calculate your RMD for you, or (2) to simply notify you of your RMD requirement, and calculate the amount and provide it to you only if requested. The IRA custodian may choose to inform you that you do not need to take a distribution from the specific IRA as long as you use the alternative certification method and take the RMD amount for that IRA from another IRA. The IRA custodian must also inform you of the date by which such amount must be distributed, and that the IRS is being informed each year, on the Form 5498, that you must take an RMD.

Is my IRA custodian required to give the IRS any information about my RMD?

Yes. The IRA custodian must, on an annual basis, indicate on the Form 5498 if an RMD is required with respect to the related IRA. At the present time, the IRS and Congress is not requiring that a person's actual RMD amount be reported to the IRS.

Traditional IRAs, Roth IRAs, 401(k) plans, and 403(b) plans are four different types, so these may not be aggregated. This special aggregation rule does not apply to distributions from Qualified Plans. There must be a separate distribution from each qualified plan, and a distribution from an IRA can be used to satisfy an RMD for a QP, or vice versa.

Is there a worksheet which I may use to calculate my required minimum distribution?

Yes, an RMD worksheet is provided later in this brochure.

What rules apply if I wish to roll over funds from an IRA to a different IRA? Are there any special RMD rules with which I must comply?

Yes. The rules applying to rollovers have not changed. A person is not eligible to roll over an RMD. If one does, then it will be an excess contribution.

The IRS rules provide that the first money out of your IRA for a given year is defined to be your required distribution for such year, until your requirement is met. Therefore, if you were to take a distribution early in the year, thinking you could roll it over and later take your RMD amount, the IRS would consider the distribution to be part of your RMD amount, and rolling over an RMD amount is not permissible. You may, of course, use the alternative certification method and take your RMD amount for one IRA from a different IRA.

What rules apply if I wish to transfer funds from an IRA to a different IRA?

Current tax rules allow you to transfer your entire IRA balance (including any RMD for such year) from one IRA to another IRA. You must understand that there are some risks associated with the new rules.

The rules clearly state that the two IRA custodians (i.e. sending and receiving) are not responsible to redetermine your RMD amount just because you transfer funds out of their IRA or transfer funds into their IRA. This means that you, the accountholder, will be responsible to make sure that you withdraw your RMD from wherever you wish.

Do all distributions count towards satisfying the RMD amount?

Almost all distributions do count; even the distribution of nondeductible contributions are counted. However, "corrective distributions" pursuant to Code section 408(d)(4), 408(d)(5), 408(k)(6)(C) or similar items defined by the IRS commissioner do not reduce the RMD amount.

What withholding rules will apply to the periodic distributions made to me?

Prior to commencing your periodic distributions, you will need to instruct the IRA custodian whether or not you want to have federal income tax withheld from your distributions.

Your IRA custodian will furnish you the necessary form. You may instruct the IRA custodian to withhold 10% of your distributions, an additional amount in excess of the 10%, or not to have withholding. You must be aware that there are penalties for not paying sufficient tax during the year, either through withholding or estimated tax payments. The IRS advises new retirees to review Publication 505. It explains your estimated tax requirements and describes penalties in detail.

Am I required to take a minimum distribution from each IRA I have?

No. The minimum distribution amount must be calculated separately for each IRA you have. Under the final RMD rules, the IRA custodian must determine your RMD if you request it. However, you do not have to take a distribution from each IRA, as long as you satisfy the total minimum distribution amount from at least one IRA.

Example: Roberta is age 76 (distribution period of 22.0) in 2018, and she has four IRAs at four different IRA custodians:

IRA Custodian	IRA Balance	RMD Amount
First Bank	$5,000.00	$227.27
First Brokerage	$15,000.00	$681.82
Second Bank	$30,000.00	$1,363.64
Second Brokerage	$20,000.00	$909.09
Aggregate RMD TOTAL		$3,181.82

Roberta can take the $3,181.82 from the first IRA, the second IRA, the third IRA, the fourth IRA or in any combination, as long as she satisfies her required minimum distribution of $3,181.82. If Roberta withdraws $3,181.82 from the IRA at First Bank, then she should inform the other three custodians in writing that she has satisfied her RMD requirement by withdrawing funds from the IRA at First Bank.

Did the IRS revise the rules regarding the need to take a required distribution from each IRA I have?

Yes. The IRS has modified the alternative method rules originally set forth in Notice 88-38. The rule is unchanged that the RMD must be calculated separately for each IRA which an individual owns. Such RMDs must then be totaled and such total may be taken from just one of the IRAs or it can be taken from any combination of the IRAs. However, the IRS in adopting the final regulation modified the rule so that only the RMDs of “like-kind” IRAs may be aggregated for purposes of this special distribution rule.

Examples of “like-kind” IRAs:

1. Traditional IRAs of a person who holds them as an accountholder;
2. Traditional IRAs of a person who holds them as a beneficiary, as long as related to the same deceased IRA accountholder (i.e. an inherited IRA); and
3. Roth IRAs of a person who holds them as a beneficiary of the same deceased Roth IRA accountholder (i.e. an inherited Roth IRA).

For RMD purpose, a standard traditional IRA, SEP-IRA and SIMPLE-IRA are all defined to be traditional IRAs.

A distribution from an IRA which is not of the same type may not be used to satisfy the RMD requirement of another type of IRA. For example, if John Doe inherits two traditional IRAs from his dad and one traditional IRA from his mom, then he may aggregate the two IRAs he inherited from his dad, but he may not aggregate these two with the inherited one from his mom.

If my RMD is to be calculated using the Joint Life and Last Survivor Expectancy Table, where can I find it and what divisor will apply to me?

You should refer to Appendix B of IRS Publication 590-B (IRS Distributions) and you will need to determine the divisor which applies to you. For example, if you attain age 70 1/2 in 2018 and your spouse who is your sole beneficiary will attain age 55 in 2018, then your RMD divisor for 2018, and subsequent years will be as follows:

Year	Your Age	Spouse's Age	RMD Divisor
2018	70	55	31.1
2019	71	56	30.1
2020	72	57	29.2
2021	73	58	28.3
2022	74	59	27.4
2023	75	62	26.5
2024	76	61	25.6
2025	77	62	24.7
2026	78	63	23.8
2027	79	64	22.9
2028	80	65	22.1

What happens if there is a change in my marital status after January 1?

If your spouse would die after January 1, or you become divorced after January 1, you will still be treated as married for such year.

However, you would not qualify to use the Joint Table for subsequent years unless you would remarry and qualify again under the special rule.

What happens if I designate a beneficiary other than or in addition to my spouse during the current distribution calendar year?

If your spouse is not your sole beneficiary or he or she is not more than 10 years younger than you, there will be no effect on your RMD for the current year.

If your spouse is your sole beneficiary and he or she is more than 10 years younger than you, then your RMD amount will need to be redetermined by using the Uniform Lifetime Table. Your RMD would increase.

Will I be able to use a tax-free charitable distribution to satisfy my required distribution?

Yes. In December of 2015, the qualified charitable contribution/distribution (QCD) rules were adopted on a permanent basis. A distribution made during 2018 qualifies as a QCD if the following three rules were satisfied - the distribution occurs during 2018, it is for an amount up to $100,000 and the check is made payable to a qualifying charity.

Can you give an example of what tax benefit I would receive by making a tax-free charitable distribution for 2018?

Yes. Let's assume that you normally give your church $900 each year. Your required distribution amount was $800. If you will instruct your IRA custodian to withdraw $900 from your IRA and directly pay it to your church, then you will not be taxed on this distribution, and you will have satisfied your required distribution.

Once I die, are there required distribution rules applying to my beneficiary(ies)?

Yes. Another CWF brochure (#154) is devoted to this topic. You may also review IRS Publication 590-B. There are rules requiring your beneficiary(ies) to withdraw certain minimum distributions by various deadlines. If such distributions do not occur by the appropriate deadline, then your beneficiary will owe the 50% excise tax. Some IRA plan agreements may require you to inform your beneficiary(ies) that he or she is a beneficiary of your IRA. The rules as to when and how much must be withdrawn by your beneficiary(ies) will depend on whether you die before or after your required beginning date. In general, your beneficiary may choose to withdraw the funds over his or her life expectancy commencing the year after you die. The rules applying to a beneficiary will not apply to your spouse if he or she is your sole primary beneficiary and he or she elects to treat your IRA as his or her own IRA. In this case, your spouse will not be required to start withdrawing funds until he or she becomes subject to the required distribution rules as an IRA accountholder.

RMD Worksheet

- 1. Value of IRA as of 12-31 (of previous year). _____ (1)
- 2. Add in outstanding rollovers, transfers and recharacterizations. _____ (2)
(Example—You made a rollover contribution into this IRA, and it was after December 31, but on or before March 1, (within the required 60 days). You are now calculating your RMD based on your 12/31 balance which does not include this rollover amount. You will need to adjust the December 31 balance by adding this rollover into the 12/31 figure so your RMD will be calculated accurately.)
- 3. Adjusted account balance to be used (line (1) plus line (2)). _____ (3)
- 4. Your age as of 12-31 of current year. _____ (4)
- 5. Determine the life-expectancy factor. _____ (5)
(Use the applicable Table.)
- 6. Divide the amount on line (3) by the number listed on line (5). _____ (6)
(This is the amount of the required minimum distribution before any distributions are credited.)
- 7. Distributions made during the year for which credits may be taken. (_____) (7)
(If distributions were taken from an IRA other than the one referenced above, a certification should be attached.)
- 8. Subtract line (7) from line (6). The amount, if any, still required to be distributed for this Distribution Year. _____ (8)
